ESTABLISHED 1840. The election of Grover Cleveland and Thomas A. Hendricks to the office of President and Vice-President of the United States last night with every possible manifestation and the most imposing demonstrations of joy. The sun had serreely disappeared behind the Arkansas lorest ere the streets were affame with bonfires, electric lights and illuminated houses, and alive with great throngs of people, sight-seers, and men hurrying to the rendezvous provided by the marshals for the assembly of those who were to participate in the parade, of which it is fair to say that it was by far the grandest thing of the kind ever witnessed in Memphis. The whole population-men, women and children, blacks as well as whites—seemed to be present as witnesses of, or participants in, the procession, which was a moving column of fire. Nothing was to be heard, as it marched along the designated route to the place for the speaking, above the din of detonating fire-crackers, cannon and pietols but cheers for Cleveland and Hendricks. Not one word was said in dis paragement of Blaine and Logan, not a word of acrimony or bittterness about the Republican party. The people seemed to ender themselves solely and wholly to rejolcing over a success that is to the South very much more than the triumph of a party. There was a spirit of so far as the returns indicate the States anything like boasting or bragadocio was a sary to a choice. conspicuous feature of a night long to be remembered as the most glorious in the p litical annals of the city. As were the people so were the speakers. They e pressed the gratitude of the South for th work of the Independent Republican assured our Northern brethren the Cleveland's administration would be in th best sense of the word conservative, th the existing facts of the great revolution b which the neg o was made free and made a citizen, the equal of the white man b fore the law, could not, and would not they could, be modified or repealed; the the negro, since he was made free, wa never surer of that freedom than he now that the blessings of an administr tion of economy and reform has come to the country. And in saying this they spoke with all the warrant possible to men commissioned to speak not only for the pecple of Memphis and Tennessee, but for the asserted claims of men, many of who, n were conspicuous during the campaign by their absence from the platforms, the stumps and the hustings. The people of the North may as well understand it now and platfort while see to it that Mr.

This county, which Chalmers confidently expected to carry by 1500 majority, has decided in favor of Judge Morgan by a majority of 198. The triumph of Judge Morgan, es-pecially in this county, is to be attributed, in no slight degree, to the noble and in no slight degree, to the noble and chivalrous conduct of his formidable op-

the result to be not less pleasing to Mr.
Watson than to Judge Morgan himself.
In our municipal election, Col. J. W.

mayor by a plurality of seventy-four votes.
Messrs. J. G. Leach, E. M. Smith, J. M.
